

By what process do the cells in this juvenile baboon divide their cytoplasm during the mitotic divisions that will allow it to grow to adulthood?

A cleavage

B cell plate formation

In organisms without cell walls, cytoplasmic division proceeds by the process known as cleavage.

Answer A.

Starr·C·08·06 2002-10-23