

Where in sedimentary beds do geologists find fossils of organisms that most closely resemble living marine organisms?

A In the uppermost layers.

B In the middle layers.

C In the deepest layers.

The deepest layers contain the oldest fossils and the uppermost layers contain the most recently created fossils.

Answer A.

Starr C'16'01 2002-10-23