

What is an abrupt rise in extinction rates called?

A mass extinction

B background extinction

C adaptive radiation

D punctuated equilibrium

Mass extinctions are thought to be caused by global events such as glaciations or asteroid impacts rather than by changes in local conditions.

Answer A.

Starr C'17'13 2002-10-23