

How do the roots of this tree obtain the organic compounds they need to carry out aerobic respiration?

- A translocation through the phloem
- B cohesion-tension transport through the xylem
- C absorption from the soil
- D diffusion through the stomata

Organic compounds are moved from the leaves to the roots through the phloem.

Answer A.

Starr C'26'05 2002-10-23