

What will stimulate the beta cells of the pancreas to secrete the hormone insulin into the bloodstream?

A eating

B exercising

Insulin is secreted by the beta cells of the pancreas in response to a rise in blood glucose levels. It causes increased uptake of glucose from the bloodstream, thus restoring blood glucose levels to normal.

Answer A.

Starr C 31 04 2002-10-23