

From what cellular structure does a flagellum arise?

- A a chromoplast
- B a centriole
- C a cilium
- D a central vacuole

Both cilia and flagella arise from barrel-shaped centrioles. The centriole remains at the base of the completed microtubule array, where it is often called a basal body.

Answer B.