

What is an abrupt rise in extinction rates called?

- A mass extinction
- B background extinction
- C adaptive radiation
- D punctuated equilibrium

Mass extinctions are thought to be caused by global events such as glaciations or asteroid impacts rather than by changes in local conditions.

Answer A.