

All viruses consist of genetic material inside an external coat. What are these two components made of?

- A nucleic acids and polysaccharides
- B protein and monosaccharides
- C nucleic acids and protein
- D protein and amino acids

The genetic material of a virus is a nucleic acid (either RNA or DNA). It is contained within a protein coat.

Answer C.