

To which fungal group does the black bread mold, Rhizopus, belong?

- A the club fungi
- B the sac fungi
- C the zygomycetes

---

If hyphae of two Rhizopus strains meet, their cytoplasm joins, and their haploid nuclei are brought together. These nuclei fuse to form a zygote, which then develops into a thick-walled zygospore.

Answer C.