

What type of plant tissue makes up most of the primary tissues of roots, stems, leaves, flowers, and fruits?

- A parenchyma
- B collenchyma
- C schlerenchyma

---

Parenchyma cells typically are thin-walled, pliable, and many-sided. When mature, they stay alive and retain the capacity to divide.

Answer A.