

Skin color is mostly a function of the distribution of which of the following?

- A fibroblasts
  - B lymphocytes
  - C melanocytes
  - D osteocytes
-

Humans generally have the same number of melanocytes, but skin color varies owing to differences in the distribution and metabolic activity of these cells.

Answer C.