

Factoring out a common monomial is based on the distributive property, which is $a(b + c) = \underline{\hspace{2cm}}$.

A) $b + ac$

B) $ab + c$

C) $ab + ac$

D) $ab + bc$

Factoring out a common monomial is based on the distributive property, which is $a(b + c) = \underline{ab + ac}$.

Answer C.

gfbj'07'04'05 2006-11-20