

In any right triangle, the square of the hypotenuse is equal to the _____ of the squares of the two _____.

A) product... legs

B) sum... legs

C) difference... legs

D) sum... angles

In any right triangle, the square of the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the squares of the two legs.

Answer B.

gfbj'09'02'08 2006-11-20